Volume 7 Issue 6

Hello, Fall!

Please update your child's information online including social media, student health update, and emergency contact information. A letter was sent out last week to those families who have not completed the necessary paperwork.

Please use the log in information to check your child's parent portal account. It is the best way for you to monitor student progress and to be aware of missing and incomplete assignments.

Reading: Mrs. Hill

In class, we are moving on to our next unit where we will dig deep into understanding the author's purpose of a text. Students will also have their first prefix and suffix quiz. The prefixes and suffixes we have been studying are highlighted in the vocabulary section of their reading notebook. Please continue to help students stay on track to reach their AR goal, verbal and handwritten reminders may help students remember their responsibilities.

We are beginning a unit on weather. Students can watch the Weather Channel, check out weather apps, and work on becoming budding meteorologists.

Correct and return tests from Unit 1 are due by Friday, September 27th.

Math: Mrs. Pleasant:

JXL lessons that correspond to the concepts on the Chapter 2 test are stapled into your child's planner. This test will be Thursday, September 26th, and all assignments for this unit are due on that day. If your child has a missing notation in parent portal, they will need to check their Go Math textbooks for missing pages. Also, I have a growing pile of no name papers that could be claimed.

Please keep sending in box tops, glass jars and can tabs for various 4th grade and GLE service projects.

Thanks for all the jars already sent.

Virginia Studies: Ms. Mullins

Virginia Geography test is scheduled for Thursday, September 26th. Notebooks will be checked on that date. Students should study notebooks, folders and use the study guide to review the important information.

A previously assigned extra credit poster is also due on Friday.
